What are fake discounts? Fake discounts, or fictitious pricing, is a disingenuous practice that some retailers take part in, where the supposed 'pre-sale price' of an item is drastically inflated, or the 'post-sale price' of an item is actually its market price.The effect of this is to deceive the consumer into believing they are getting a bargain, making them more likely to purchase an item.

Insulin is a hormone made in the pancreas that allows our body to use glucose from the food we eat to energize our bodies, or store it for future use by moving it from the blood into cells. People with type 1 diabetes produce little or no insulin, which causes their blood sugar to rise, and puts them at risk for heart and nerve damage, kidney failure, coma, or death.
